

Coronavirus Disease (COVID-19) Preparedness, Response, and Recovery

On March 13, 2020, the President declared a national emergency in response to the COVID-19 outbreak. This declaration frees up important funding to state and local governments to support response efforts associated with COVID-19. Disaster Recovery Services has extensive experience in preparing for and responding to federally declared disasters, including providing assistance with FEMA-compatible procurement guidance and cost tracking to maximize financial recovery.

To assist you in your response efforts to COVID-19, DRS can help you:

- Establish FEMA-compatible procurement guidance as it relates to 2 CFR 200, and your state and local policies
- Establish cost-tracking protocols in template format that integrate into your existing processes and procedures
- Provide system-wide virtual training on procurement and cost-tracking concepts through webinars
- Provide a knowledgeable point of contact for your team when questions arise
- Access industry-leading experts to develop site-specific preventative and responsive cleaning protocols written by certified industrial hygienists
- Access resources that can respond quickly to implement developed cleaning protocols in a safe and effective manner
- Provide assistance in accessing funds made available under the emergency declaration
- Prepare Project Worksheets and FEMA-ready packages to support your FEMA claim for COVID-19, should your state receive federal public assistance

With DRS' assistance, you can avoid:

- Not capturing all costs related to your response efforts, including those associated with using your internal labor, materials, and equipment
- Losing reimbursement funding due to procurement processes that are not FEMA-compatible
- Not being able to access critical response resources due to high demand nationwide
